“Why do I need life insurance?”

Life insurance can be an important step in safeguarding your family's overall financial plan. You may have already considered purchasing life insurance or you may already have insurance through another source. But have you considered all the ways your family relies on you and how life insurance can help bring some peace of mind to both you and your loved ones?

“How much life insurance do I need?”

Experts recommend that you have at least 5 to 10 times your annual income in life insurance. If you don't think you have as much coverage as you may need, this is your opportunity to secure additional protection for your family.

Your plan offers you a choice to elect the amount of coverage that is appropriate for you and your family. You also have the option to elect coverage for your spouse and dependent children.

“I don't need it because I don't have any dependents.”

Many people assume that if they don't have dependents, they don't need life insurance. If anyone would be affected financially by your death for any reason (funeral expenses, hospital bills, mortgage, loans or credit card debt), a life insurance policy can help cover these types of expenses. You should also consider parents or siblings who, while not your dependents, may receive financial support from you.

“That will never happen to me.”

Having a family changes everything. First and foremost, it forces us to plan for the future and events that may be inconceivable to us. While no one enjoys facing the harsh reality of losing a loved one, knowing you have enough life insurance can help give you and your family peace of mind.

“But I already have life insurance.”

But do you have enough? Most people are confident with their decision to purchase life insurance to help with funeral expenses, estate administration costs, debts and medical expenses not covered by health insurance. When considering these costs, it's vital to factor in expenses like your mortgage, college tuition, and spouse's retirement. There could be other expenses like home repairs and maintenance and healthcare. Moreover, many people forget that certain life events results in an increased need for life insurance. For example, your children may be getting closer to college age, your spouse may not be working or you may be supporting aging parents.

Experts recommend 5 to 10 times your annual income in life insurance protection. It is important to realize that life insurance needs will vary from person to person and that your needs may change over time, so it's important to reconsider the amount of life insurance you have periodically.
